Happy World Book Day!

On 23rd April 1995, World Book day was created by UNESCO. The purpose was to celebrate books and authors and to inspire children and young people to discover the pleasure of reading. The first World Book Day in the UK and Ireland took place in 1997 with the aim of promoting reading for fun.

World Book Day, alongside schools all over the country, now distributes more than 15 million £1 World Book Day book tokens to children and young people in the UK and Ireland every year!

In St. Mary's, we have celebrated World Book Day in our classes by watching live events presented by authors and illustrators, decorating wooden spoon characters and discussing and writing book reviews of our favourite books!

Mrs McNickle

Every child in St Mary's was invited to dress up for World Book Day. This year, we focused on dressing up as people from non-fiction books.

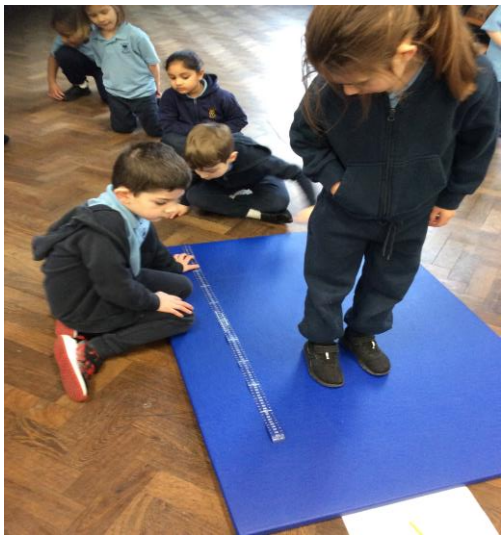
Spotlight on Year 1!

In Maths this term, we have been learning about measurement, focusing on length and height. We found objects in the classroom to measure so we could see which one was the tallest and shortest. We also measured ourselves. The children ordered themselves from tallest to shortest! We even measured how far we could jump!



Our World Book Day celebrations began earlier on this week when we joined in a workshop with the illustrator Axel Scheffler! Year 1 had great fun watching him draw and listening to a medley of stories as well as finding out about his new book Happy Bunnies. We also had a fantastic day in our costumes, creating characters from wooden spoons.
